The 8th Great City. In essence, this is not actually a great city, but a giant group of nomads wandering from great city to great city. Due to the size and power of the inhabitants, it is considered the 8th Great City.

Background

Tractas existed due to the beastkin for a long time not feeling like they belonged anywhere. They started living closer to the wilds in small communities that travelled around Aestilon Fields and beyond. As time passed, many of these communities joined together, forming the massive travelling city of Tractas.

Many different tents can be seen and nowadays all factions ensure they are represented in Tractas.
